They were accompanied by their sponsor, Mrs. Jean Hesson.

ACTIVITIES OF GIRL SCOUTS

Last week through The Times-Virginian you met numerous persons who are interested enough in Girl Scouting to offer their services either to help with tours, handwork, or talks. All of these make our Girl Scouts widen their knowledge of this spacious world in which they are a part. These same services are rendered to our local troops by persons in other communities, all of which makes us a part of a Council.

The Lynchburg Area Council of Girl Scouts includes not only Lynchburg but all of the neighborhood areas, such as Appomattox. Through this Council, Brownie Troops 16, 70 and 71 Intermediate Girl Scout Troop 41 are made possible. A troop must belong to a Council. The volunteer workers from this Council offer literature, workshops, camping training, and their lending hand in anyway the local troop chooses to ask.

Today in Appomattox, Scouting is at its peak. Never before in the history of our town have we had the number of Girl or Boy Scouts that we have today. The adult personnel has increased to its peak also. There are three Brownie troops with a total of 34 girls, a total of 7 adult leaders and assistants, and a total of 9 Brownie committee members. The American Legion Auxiliary sponsors these troops.

The Intermediate Girl Scout troop has 9 Girl Scouts and two adult leaders and assistants. Three members make up the Girl Scout committee. This group is sponsored by the Appomattox Woman's Club. The neighborhood committee consists of three adults. As a grand total, we readily see what tremendous progress Girl Scouting has made in Appomattox. The total is 43 girls, in troops, 9 leaders and assistants, 12 committee members and 3 neighborhood committee, for a grand total of 67.

Traffic Up On Secondary Roads In Va.

Traffic on the state's 41,307-mile secondary road system is increasing steadily, the State Highway Department reported today.

A report made by the Department's Traffic and Planning Division for the fiscal year ended June 30 showed that approximately 50 per cent of the secondary (farm-to-market) roads in Virginia are carrying 50 or more vehicles per day—an increase of about 24 per cent above the 1939 figure.

Commenting on the study, J. P. Mills, Jr., traffic and planning engineer, said:

"There were 8,763 miles of secondary roads in 1939 carrying 50 or more vehicles per day; 15,500 in 1956; 19,975 in 1956, and 20,962 now. Secondary roads carrying 50 or more vehicles per day now represent slightly more than 50 per cent of the total mileage, compared to only 24 per cent in 1939."

The report also showed:

1. In 1939, there were 4,536 miles of hard-surfaced secondary roads, compared to 11,390 in 1950; 18,117 in 1956, and 19,138 on June 30, 1957. The hard-surfaced mileage is now 46 per cent of the total, compared to about 12 per cent in 1939.

2. The total secondary mileage in 1939 was 36,356, compared to 39,046 in 1950; 40,982 in 1956, and 41,307 on June 30.

3. In 1952 there were 3,943 miles of secondary roads, carrying 50 or more vehicles per day, that were not hard surfaced. In 1956, this mileage had dropped to 3,667, and on June 30 was 3,465. Of the 478 mile decrease since 1952, 202 miles were hard surfaced during the past fiscal year.

Total mileages by highway districts for all types of roads in the secondary system on June 30 were: Bristol, 5,715; Salem, 6,579; Lynchburg 5,820; Richmond, 5,049; Suffolk, 4,255; Fredericksburg, 3,415; Culpeper, 5,619; and Staunton, 4,856.

The Suffolk district led in hard-surfaced mileage, with 3,267. The Richmond district was next with 2,970, and Lynchburg third with 2,418.

BROILER PRICES IN 1958 WILL BE ABOUT THE SAME AS LAST YEAR

Broiler prices in 1958 should remain about the same as those this year, predict agricultural economists at V. P. I.

In their look-see at farming for the year ahead, they see total production of broilers as up, but with some slowing down in the rate of increase.

The future of the chicken meat business looks good for the efficient operation whether it be that of the grower, feed man, or processor. The trend toward increased size of operations, automatic equipment, and quality control is likely to continue. Raising meat chickens has developed into a process similar to other types of manufacturing. Considered in this light, the individual grower sells his labor and the use of his buildings and equipment to the feed dealer, who assembles the necessary raw materials and directs the first stages of the operation. The processor takes over and carries the process toward the finished product demanded by consumers.

Each member of the industry must operate efficiently in order to cover costs, absorb risks, and compete successfully. Ownership and management of the various stages by one concern seems to be an answer. Contract arrangements between the grower and the feed man, between the feed man and the hatcheryman, and between the feed dealer and the processing plant seem to offer a practical solution to the scheduling of birds in response to estimated demand, the economists say.

Local stores remain open Friday nights until Christmas.

LONG WEEK-END HOLIDAY COMING UP

A "long week-end" is in store for many Appomattox people, due to the fact that several important pay-roll plants are giving both Thursday and Friday as Thanksgiving holidays.

Both the Appomattox Garment Company, and the Virginia Novelty Company will take the double holiday, giving their large number of workers a "long week-end" until Monday morning.

AT METHODIST DISTRICT MEETING

Among those attending the Lynchburg District Christian Education Rally Monday evening in the Court Street Methodist Church from the Memorial Methodist Church in Appomattox were the pastor, the Rev. Richard A. Bergdoll; C. T. Moses, Jr., Church Lay Leader; Mary Belle Babcock, Youth Representative; Mrs. J. T. Irby, Superintendent of Childrens' Division, and Mrs. C. J. Hunter, Junior Department Teacher.

Tourist Cash Aids Virginia

Richmond, Va.- Virginians actually far removed from Virginia's out-of-state guests receive a share of the travel dollar, according to a survey announced today by the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce.

The average United States tourist, traveling in the U. S. spends about $10 a day, according to figures supplied the Virginia Chamber by the National Association of Travel Organizations, which made the breakdown of the spending of tourists.

The average tourist dollar the hotel or motel receives is broken down something like this:

Salaries and wages	31c
Taxes and insurance	14c
Interest on the mortgage	12½c
Furniture and other replacement	6c
Heat, light and power	4c
Telephone	3c

And shares also go to local printers, laundrymen, dry cleaner, etc.

The average guest spends his dollar something like this while traveling in Virginia:

Food and refreshment	27c
Transportation	22c
Lodging	21c
Retail purchases	14c
Theatres, other amusements	7c
Tourist attractions	4c
Laundry and other services	5c

These figures indicate that businesses other than those actually in contact with guests to the Old Dominion are slicing a melon too.

It is estimated that tourism brings around $500,000,000 into the Old Dominion each year.

Five cents of every dollar spent in Virginia by an out-of-state person goes for laundry and other services. Seven cents goes into the theatre or amusement industry. A fourteen-cent slice is reserved for retail purchases.

The Knoxville, Tenn., tourist bureau is convinced that nerbly farmers have benefited, too, from the influx of visitors. Some samples of yearly tourist consumption:

Eggs	521,000 dozen
Milk, cream	2,523,000 quarts
Meats	2,909,000 pounds
Potatoes	1,557,000 pounds

The Virginia Chamber says that it is obvious that travel advertising and promotion pays. Also, the association says an area will make more money from the tourists it gets by providing better accomodations and attractions which will hold them longer.

Any community which can generate a few dozen tourists a day throughout the year can generate the same financial benefit that would come if it obained a small factory.

RURITAN MEETING

Shop in Appomattox on Friday nights.

Virginia Dark-fired Tobacco markets will open for the selling season on Monday, December 2, and Appomattox farmers are awaiting a chance to see what the trends indicate in disposing of one of their big cash crops.

Experienced observers have estimated that the 1957 Virginia Dark-fired tobacco crop will run between nine and 10 million pounds. Such a total would be well under the 1956 crop total. A 10 per cent acreage cut, despite good demand last year, was a factor in making this estimate. Another factor was the placing of some tobacco acreage in the Soil Bank Reserve. The 1956 crop was about 11¼ million pounds.

Dark tobacco warehouses operate in Blackstone, Farmville, Lynchburg and Bedford. Three houses operate in Farmville, with the day's first sale at 9 A. M.

The warehouses will close for the Christmas holiday after the final sale on Thursday, December 19, and will reopen to complete the marketing of the crop, beginning Monday, January 6.

Government support prices on Type 21 dark-fired tobacco will be in full operation. The average will be slightly better than 38 cents per pound, up about two cents above last year.

It is generally believed that the early sales will be fairly heavy in volume. Farmers are up in readying leaf for market, whereas last year the early offerings were light due to conditions not suitable for ordering tobacco.

Hope To Make Blood Quota

Plans are now underway for soliciting blood donors for the Red Cross Bloodmobile, which will be at Liberty Baptist Church here on Monday, December 2 from 11:00 A. M. until 5:00 P. M.

Appomattox County is fortunate in being able to have participated in the Red Cross Blood Program for the past several years. Citizens of the county have been and are still receiving blood when needed from the Roanoke Blood Center free of cost. The only cost to the hospital fee for administering the blood. For blood to be available for those who need it, someone must give it. Records show that Appomattox County has fallen short of furnishing as much blood to the Center in Roanoke as has been used by this county. This, to the regret of the local Red Cross Chapter, means that our neighboring counties participating in the blood program are furnishing blood for Appomattox County. This cannot continue. If the county is to continue receiving blood from the Roanoke Center, something must be done by the people of Appomattox County.

The goal for December 16 is 70 pints of blood, which is a very small amount compared to the population of 9,000 or 9,000 for the county. An urgent plea is being made to all persons between the ages of 18 and 59, to take this as a personal matter and go to Liberty Baptist Church and offer a pint of blood. A thorough examination will be given, and any found not physically able to donate, blood will not be taken. Roanoke Blood Center officials have advised that Asian flu shots do not hinder the giving of blood as long as there is a lapse of at least 24 hours from the time of the shot to the giving of the blood.

As many persons as possible will be contacted personally in the recruitment of donors. However, it will be impossible to contact everyone who is capable of giving. Those not contacted may secure a pledge card from H. A. Gurney, G. B. Buchanan, or Newton Jennings. And volunteers may report at the church December 16, if they have not signed a pledge card.
